FROM THE PASTOR

Thanksgiving (or giving thanks) is more than 1 day

"Rejoice always, pray continually, give thanks in all circumstances; for this is God's will for you in Christ Jesus."

(1Thessalonians 5: 16-18, NIV)

I love how Paul challenges his readers to rejoice, pray and give thanks always. If you were ever wondering when you should do these things, Paul has made it crystal clear. Sometimes people ask things like "when should we pray – mealtime, bedtime, work, crisis?" Paul's answer: "Pray always!"

While many of us understand the idea of praying always, some of us struggle when he calls for rejoicing and giving thanks always; yet that is what Paul is calling us to do. More importantly, Paul says that this is what Christ desires of us – to rejoice always and to give thanks always. God is at work always in every situation. We are called to see that God is the source of all our blessings. The greatest of these is the blessing of life offered to us out of another of God's many gifts - love.

So may we rejoice, pray, give thanks....not sometimes but always for this is God's will.

Hello Choir,

Thanksgiving is upon us and I am grateful for your gift of time, singing voice and dedication. Thank you for your uplifting anthem this morning! We give thanks for God's blessings, so bountiful!! As well, it is a thrill when you lead the congregation with such strength. I just received notice that quite a few are going to be out Christmas Sunday and Christmas Eve, I appreciate those who advised me early on. I am totally understanding with all the family situations and make no judgments, but I would appreciate (by email, if possible) knowing choir member plans for attendance regarding those two services, as well as the cantata, before the time comes upon us - changes may be necessary. Your voice is important to others in the choir that depend on vocal support. When your voice is missing that loss creates a more challenging teaching atmosphere for new music material. Again, I also know you are dedicated and come when you can. We all know illness and work create reasons for missing rehearsal. Each of you are needed and important to the groups vocal sound. Please check the November and December cantata rehearsal schedules emailed to you and stay abreast of additional rehearsals; Janet printed a copy of the schedules and placed one next to the calendar in the choir room, so check it out when you're not sure.

For all you do, many thanks for creating a choir that God and congregation appreciate. Being self-sufficient, God surely doesn't need our praises through song, but he is worthy, and deserves it. It is right to praise the Lord in worship, and I can think of no better way than through song, but it must be spontaneous and genuine, otherwise, it loses its omnipotent essence of joy. That must be the reason the church has long used song for praise in worship. So, it is right that we sing for him, as those who hear you receive a blessing, and are swallowed up with delight in your gift! God created us for his pleasure, so let our voices, in the upcoming holidays, give thanks for the incredible things God has done for us - his goodness, love and distinctive perfection above all others. We feel unworthy when those we respect and love fail to recognize our efforts in the tasks we daily perform so a pat on the back is good and appreciated, but should not be expected. Let us remember that our efforts are useless when we fail to sing just for him and to fulfill his purpose. Only then can we complete our own joy in singing! I encourage us all to sing with our whole heart and be glad we can, for when time stands between our voice and the ability to perform, the joy will be greatly missed, just ask Don. Tonight, we talked, and I expressed how much he is missed: He said: "I miss it more than you miss me, I can assure you". Oh God, we earnestly pray your will, for his recovery and return to choir with his beautiful gift! So, let us remain steadfast in our sacred purpose for singing! Ephesians speaking to one another with psalms, hymns, and songs from the Spirit. Sing and make music from your heart to the LORD. I am thankful for each choir members gift, dedication and love for one another – only God knows when someone's heart may be touched or changed, through your gift of sacred song!

Sing with joy,

~Sue
